Professor Richard Evans was principal expert witness for the defence. In Telling Lies About Hitler, he describes the trial as "raising in an acute and . . . practical form many of the problems with which I had been wrestling in my book In Defence of History". The book combines a blow-by-blow account of the 28 hours Evans spent on the stand with a much-abridged version of his 740-page report on Irving's use of historical sources.

A big lie is a propaganda technique. The expression was coined by Adolf Hitler, when he dictated his 1925 book Mein Kampf, about the use of a lie so "colossal" that no one would believe that someone "could have the impudence to distort the truth so infamously". Hitler believed the technique was used by Jews to blame Germany's loss in World War I on German general Erich Ludendorff, who was a prominent nationalist and antisemitic political leader in the Weimar Republic.
